Deception Operation and Declaration of Red Alert in the Country

Great Nation of Iran,

You are probably familiar with deception operations in wars: sometimes a quasi-real operation is staged on the fronts, with a realistic appearance, to focus the enemy's attention on it so that the enemy neglects the real operation and the intended front. One example was the heavy publicity surrounding the sixth round of negotiations between the Islamic Republic and the United States, which was supposed to take place on Sunday, 25 Khordad, in Muscat. Yet Israel, in coordination with Trump, carried out its surprise aggressions against Iran on Friday, 23 Khordad—while the reckless officials of the Islamic Republic deemed an Israeli attack before the sixth round of talks impossible.

This tactic is not limited to military doctrine; it is widely used in politics. It appears that the extensive promotion of the “Shah's son,” especially after his compounded scandal—following the Haaretz disclosure that through fake accounts and sites, artificial intelligence, and fabricated content, paid for by the Israeli state, they were attempting to present him as beloved by the Iranian people—and even worse, his declaration of support for Israel's aggression against Iran, which is a clear instance of treason—this scale of promotion of an incompetent individual whose basin of disgrace and betrayal of the nation and servitude to foreigners has fallen from the rooftop of Jerusalem, is worth reflection. Especially when we know that Zionists are not so foolish as to be unaware that just as the restoration of monarchy was impossible in Afghanistan, so too, a fortiori, such a possibility does not exist in Iran. Therefore, these promotions must be viewed as a deception operation, and the main plan must be uncovered. The analytical foundations of the National Council of Iran's Revolutionary Transition are as follows:

- 1) The connections of the People's Mojahedin Organization of Iran (MEK) and of groups and parties such as the Democratic Party of Iranian Kurdistan, Komala, and others with Israel are too solid to be denied.
- 2) The MEK's ties with Kurdish parties and organizations are so close that for a long time the MEK has accepted and announced Kurdish “self-rule” (read: secession).
- 3) If the Taliban can return to Afghanistan with U.S. assistance and ISIS to Syria, why should the return of the MEK to Iran seem impossible?
- 4) Do the visits and contacts of Trump's associates such as Mike Pompeo, Rudy Giuliani, Mike Pence, and some senators have only commercial and financial motives, or do they pursue more important objectives?
- 5) The changes in the management of VOA Persian and Mr. Ali Javanmardi's new position there—who welcomes the tearing apart of Iran—and his recent statements explaining why he does not criticize the MEK are noteworthy.

6) The support of the European Parliament and British officials for Mrs. Maryam Rajavi is also notable.

7) Was Mr. Netanyahu's meeting with Trump merely to congratulate the New Year?!

8) Are Trump's repeated threats against Iran regarding the resumption of nuclear activities, and his threat of military action if suppressive forces confront protesters, truly the result of his commitment to human rights and humanitarian values?!

9) Is it not possible that the large number of Israeli spies in Iran, as well as Islamic Republic agents who have infiltrated among protesters and chant "Pahlavi will return," could appear as militia and influence the protest atmosphere?!

Based on the above and many other pieces of evidence and indications, the National Council of Iran's Revolutionary Transition predicts that the situation and atmosphere governing the protests will soon change. Therefore, it brings the following matters to your attention:

A) On the anniversary of the meeting of 58 IRGC commanders with the removed leader, recalling their statements that their forces consider the people's protests "legitimate and rightful" and are unwilling to confront protesters—and with the declaration of a "red alert" in the country—the Council calls on the national armed forces of Iran, taking advantage of the birth anniversary of the exemplar of justice, Ali (peace be upon him), to declare publicly and officially their bond with the nation and their support for the National Council of Iran's Revolutionary Transition.

B) It calls on Ali Khamenei, before he meets the fate of Colonel Gaddafi, to relinquish the usurped power to the nation through compromise. If he accepts this proposal, a representative of the National Council of Iran's Revolutionary Transition will be introduced for negotiations.

C) It calls on the great nation of Iran, through its decisive presence in the arena of struggle, the expansion of protests and strikes, and the immediate shifting of the balance of power in its favor, to enable a peaceful transfer of power and prevent foreign intervention, and to thwart the enemies' plan to create a blind riot, a power vacuum, insecurity, chaos, collapse, and the "Syrianization" of beloved Iran.

Victorious national armed forces of Iran,

Proud nation of Iran

Long live Iran
